NEW BUSINESS

Compounding Animal Drugs – Dave Dryden

Mr. Dryden, Director of Controlled Substance, was asked to come to the Board to discuss the law and rules and regulations regarding the compounding of animal drugs. Mr. Dryden stated that he thought it was a little pre-mature to talk the Board at this time since he really does not know where the Senate and House are really going with this compounding drugs issue. Mr. Dryden stated that the Board of Pharmacy had a hearing like any Board would do on this issue and that is when they came up with this regulation. The Board of Pharmacy has in their regulations that they will follow the FDA and DEA. If you have an outsourcing facility you can go to them to process your compounding drugs.

Mr. Dryden said when he talked the Veterinary Society, they brought up the point that the FDA will not let certain drugs being used by Veterinarians to be compounded and that is where the problem lies. Dr. Whaley stated that Walgreens will compound drugs for use on animals for them, but the problem is they will only do 5 MLS instead of making it more compounded for smaller animals. There are limited amount of pharmacy's that will even be able to do the compounded drugs. If there is a pharmacy that is out of state that will do mail order compounding they will need to hold a Delaware license. Since animals are not patient specific and the offices need to keep bulk to help as needed, is a problem right now. Nationally this issue is back at the Senate and House because the FDA is sticking to what they originally wrote up. Mr. Dryden stated that the Veterinary Society or Association is going to be attending the next Pharmacy meeting.
